PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

How many times have you been asked by a fellow collector, your opinion on a coin as to it's authenticity? I can't recall attending any coin show that this hasn't happened to me, and I know that every time a collector looks at a scarce coin the thought of it being a fake enters his mind. We read every week letters and stories in our coin publications about collectors leaving the hobby because they find that they have spent good money for a coin not really worth a plug nickel. There is supposedly over 8 million coin collectors today and I dare say that at least 10 percent have at one time had a fake coin in their possession, some left the hobby disgusted while others pursued whatever recourse necessary to recover their original investment. We as collectors can now curtail the flow of bad coins in our hobby, and it really amazes me to think that for over two years the call has gone unheeded. This is how long ANAT has been trying to get off the ground and if we just stop and think this is one service that we as collectors really need. Ask yourself this question, if I had proof or papers stating that every key, semi-key, scarce or valuable coin in my collection was genuine, how much peace of mind would I have? Let's all get behind ANAT and get it off and running. A small donation to this cause would help tremendously.

PLEASE NOTE: Due to the illness and hospitalization of the TNA News editor, your August issue is late. All correspondence will be answered as soon as possible. Thank you.

SOME OF THE MEN WHO HAVE MADE OUR UNITED STATES COINS GREAT

Conclusion

By CHARLOTTE NICHOLS
Houston, Texas

George T. Morgan was born in Birmingham, England in 1845 and received his early art instruction and training there. He won a national scholarship to the Kensington Art School in London and studied there for two years. Before coming to the United States he was employed at the Royal Mint in London. In 1876 he was made assistant engraver at the mint in Philadelphia. After the death of Charles Barber in 1917, George Morgan became chief engraver and remained at that position until his death in 1925. His design appears on the Morgan or Bland dollar in 1878. He also designed the reverse of the Columbian Exposition half dollar, the Lincoln-Illinois centennial half dollar, and the Huguenot-Walloon half dollar. The model for his design on the dollar was a Philadelphia school teacher, Miss Anna W. Williams.

Augustus St. Gaudens was born in Dublin, Ireland of a French father, Bernard Paul St. Gaudens, and an Irish mother, Mary McGuiness. Augustus was a baby when his parents brought him to the states. His father was a shoemaker and Augustus' first work of art were drawings of shoes for his father to make. Later he was apprenticed to Avet, a pioneer stone cameo cutter. He studied at Cooper Art Institute. It was his skill as cameo cutter that earned him entrance to the Ecole de Beaux Arts in Paris. Next he studied in Rome still cameo cutting for a living. While in Rome he married Augusta F. Homer. He then returned to New York City where two full-length statues fell to his lot - "Admiral Farragut" for Madison Square and the "Captain Randall" for Sailors Snug Harbor, Staten Island. His next statues were for Chicago, the standing "Lincoln" in Lincoln Park and the seated "Lincoln" for Chicago Lake Front. He returned to New York where his next statue the equestrian "Sherman" on the Fifth Ave. Plaza is one of the few great equestrian monuments of modern times. St. Gaudens taught at the Art Students League in New York City from 1888 to 1897. Here he influenced future medalists and coin designers. He supervised the art work and sculpture at the Chicago Exposition in 1893. His friendship with Theodore Roosevelt began when Roosevelt asked him to design his presidential medal. After this, Roosevelt asked St. Gaudens to help remodel the U.S. coinage, an act which caused much resentment among the mint officials. St. Gaudens started designing a cent striving to revive something of the spirit of the ancient Greek coins and that of Renaissance medals. The design was adapted from the profile head he had used on his beautiful Victory and Peace medal. Roosevelt suggested an Indian headdress for her and so it was adopted as the design for the $10 gold in 1907.

St. Gaudens died before the design for the double eagle had been accepted. Henry Herring, an assistant to St. Gaudens, had executed both the $10 and $20 gold coins under the direction of St. Gaudens from his designs and it was he who refined the design of the $20 gold after St. Gauden' death to make it acceptable for minting. Before his death on August 3, 1907, Princeton, Harvard and Yale had all confirmed degrees upon St. Gaudens. As he is the father of modern sculpture so is

St. Gaudens the father of our modern coin designs.

The designers of the half eagles of 1908 were Dr. William Sturgis Bigelow, whose idea it was to make the design incuse, and Bela Lyon Pratt, who made the design. Dr. Bigelow was born in Boston in 1850 and graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1874. He practiced medicine in Boston and also was professor of surgery in the Harvard Medical School. He served as trustee of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston and on the U.S. Assay Commission and was a fellow in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He studied in Paris with Pasteur. He retired from his medical practice to travel in Japan about which little was known at this time. Largely as a result of his collecting, the Boston Art Museum now has the richest collection of Japanese works of art to be found anywhere in the world outside of Japan.

Bela Lyon Pratt was born in Norwich, Conn. in 1867. He attended Yale School of Fine Arts at 16. He studied at Art Students League in New York in 1887 and studied under Augustus St. Gaudens. Later he worked for St. Gaudens in his studio. His sculptures include "The Seasons" in the Library of Congress. Other works are in Boston, New York City, the Chicago Exposition of 1893 and the Buffalo Exposition, 1901. The design for the incuse Indian was not well received and the two men were left to defend their design without much success.

Victor D. Brenner was born in Shavelli, Russia in 1871. At the age of 13 he began work with his father, a stonecutter and engraver of seals. He left home three years later to become an engraver of jewelry. Later he became interested in sculpture, an endeavor that took him to a number of Russian cities. He left Russia at age 19 and sailed for America where he attended a number of art schools. He went to Paris in 1898 to study with several famous sculptors. He returned to New York and opened an art studio. Brenner joined the mint after 1906. Among the medals that brought him fame are the Lincoln medal, the Roosevelt Panama medal and the Wright Brothers medal. He was considered the foremost sculptor-medalist of his time. His design appears on the Lincoln cent first issued in 1909. The cent was the subject of much controversy at the mint while in the designing stages. Brenner died in 1924.

Anthony de Francisci is the medalist whose design was chosen for the Peace dollar. Mrs. de Francisci was the model for the coin which was proposed by Farren Zerbe in 1920 in a paper he read before the American Numismatic Association convention. It was to commemorate the peace treaties signed after the first World War. De Francisci was the leading medalist of the day and his design was chosen from eight other designs. The coin, despite its high ideals, did not meet with approval from the public. De Francisci also designed the Maine centennial half dollar.

James Earle Fraser, designer of the Buffalo nickel, was born in Winona, Minn. on November 4, 1876, the son of Thomas and Cora West Fraser. He was a well known sculptor and painter noted for his portraits and Indian themes. One of his most popular pieces "The End of the Trail" portraying an exhausted horse and Indian was shown at the San Francisco Panama-Pacific International Exposition. Fraser's bust of Theodore Roosevelt is in the Senate chamber. He designed the Panama-Pacific International Exposition medal. He was elected a member of the National Academy of Design in 1917. His wife, Laura Gardin Fraser, was also a well known sculptress and medalist. Fraser died in 1953.

Adolf Alexander Weinman was born in Karlsruhe, Germany on December 11, 1870. He came to the U.S. in his youth and was apprenticed to a carver of wood and ivory. He later studied at Cooper Institute and the Art League of New York. Augustus St. Gaudens was his teacher. Among his many works of art are the exterior and interior sculptures for the Pennsylvania Station, New York, the Post Office building, Washington and the monumental frieze for the Supreme Court building, Washington. Weinman's designs for the half dollar and dime were chosen in competition with other medalists in 1916. His designs for the Mercury dime and for the Walking Liberty half dollar met with instant success. Weinman also designed the Medal of Honor. He died in New York in 1952.

Herman A. MacNeil was born in Chelsea, Mass. on February 27, 1866. MacNeil was a well known sculptor especially of children. He assisted in the decoration of the buildings of the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893. The model for Liberty on the quarter dollar of 1916 designed by MacNeil was Dora Dosher.

Felix Schlag was a Chicagoan of German birth coming to the U.S. only nine years before his design for the five cents of 1938 was chosen in open competition. This was the first time a U.S. coin had been so chosen and 390 designs were submitted. Schlag was awarded $1000.00 for the design.

John Flanagan was born in Newark, N.J. on August 4, 1865. He studied at Cooper Union Art School with Augustus St. Gaudens and in Paris. His work has been exhibited at Paris, Belgium and in the U.S. winning many medals and honors. Among his works is the monumental clock in the Library of Congress. He was made an associate member of the National Academy of Design in 1911 and a member in 1928. Flanagan died August 28, 1932. Flanagan designed the Franklin half dollar of 1948.

John R. Sinnock was born in Raton, New Mexico in 1888. He studied art at Pennsylvania Museum Art School in Philadelphia at which he served as instructor for eight years. He was appointed assistant engraver at the Philadelphia mint in 1917 and chief engraver in 1925. Sinnock designed the Roosevelt type dime in 1946 and the Washington type quarter dollar of 1932. He died December 14, 1947.

Frank Gasparro, the present chief engraver at the Philadelphia mint, was born in Philadelphia in 1909. He studied art at Fleisher Art Memorial and Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. He has exhibited at the Academy of the Paris mint in 1949, in Madrid, Spain in 1953 and in Rome in 1953. His work is on permanent exhibition at the Allentown Museum of Fine Arts and the Smithsonian Institute. Among the medals he has designed are the centennial Pony Express token-medal, the second term Lyndon B. Johnson presidential medal and the Philadelphia Medal of Honor. He has designed the reverses of the Kennedy half dollar of 1961 and the Lincoln memorial cent of 1959. Gasparro joined the mint in 1949 and became chief engraver February 23, 1965.

Gilroy Roberts was born March 11, 1905, the son of John Taylor Roberts, a sculptor, and Blanche Gilroy Roberts, also a sculptor and painter. Roberts accepted a position as an engraver in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in 1938 where he did the portraits on a number of official revenue and postage stamps. He was employed at the mint in 1941 as as-

COIN SHOW

Amarillo: HOST for THE ANNUAL TNA CONVENTION IN 1971

A NUMISMATIC PROFILE

A remarkable man is Port Arthur's Joseph L. O'Neal, president of the Port Arthur Coin Club!

Texas-born, he lived from the Great Lakes in the north to Lake Pontchartrain's New Orleans in the south, with some interim time in Port Arthur to which city he once again has returned and, for the past three years, calls it home.

Not exactly a youngster, Joe has an unlimited and amazing drive, and a courage which is acknowledged in a 1969 report by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission. The Carnegie Medal is awarded to one who, at the risk of his own life, saves or attempts to save the life of a fellow man. Let the Carnegie Commission tell it:

> "Joseph L. O'Neal, aged seventy-five, retired boilermaker, rescued Milton Lee, aged seventy-seven, from burning, Bridge City, Texas, February 13, 1969. In his one-story frame dwelling, Lee attempted to light a gas heater in the bedroom; and fumes which had accumulated caused an explosion.
> "Lee was knocked unconscious, and his clothing caught fire in places as flash flames ignited the bedroom's ceiling and walls. O'Neal, who was visiting Lee, was thrown to the floor in an adjoining room. He noted the plight of Lee and crawled to him in the bedroom. Heat was intense, and tongues of flame leaped at times about O'Neal's face as he rose to a kneeling position alongside Lee. After slapping at the flames on Lee's clothing, O'Neal dragged him to the front door and thence from the dwelling, in which the flames were spreading rapidly.
> "O'Neal, who had sustained minor burns, drove Lee to a hospital where he was confined for treatment of extensive burns. Lee recovered."

In setting up the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, Andrew Carnegie wrote, "I do not expect to stimulate or create heroism by this fund, knowing well that heroic action is impulsive." Joe's act of heroism only reflects what comes naturally to Joseph L. O'Neal!

A relative new comer to our hobby in seven years Joe has put together a collection of USA coinage, complete sets of Morgan and Peace Dollars, BU Lincolns, and is as he puts it, "heavily overstocked on nickels and cents."

With Joe in the presidency, the Port Arthur Coin Club is in partnership with the Sabine Coin Club in participating in this autumn's "Cavoilcade" . . . an annual Port Arthur event for some fifteen years . . with a coin-and-gun show. Joe expects a minimum of 3,000 people through the doors of the show, October 24 and 25, and that should set some kind of record in Texas for a numismatic youngster just turned seventy-seven!

NEWS ROUNDUP – A.N.A.

By NORMA MATHER
Corpus Christi, Texas
A.N.A. Representative

Your July issue of The Numismatist was late? I'm eagerly awaiting mine at this writing, anticipating further announcement of the 79th convention of ANA in St. Louis. And there will be more in the August issue to apprise us of what is in store. But we always find so much more than we have read about when we attend. Gosh!! It's too late to pre-register and request tickets for the extra-convention events but not to make your room reservations. If you plan to be there for the always delightful climax of the convention, the Saturday night banquet, let's all get together at a Texas table, OK? Joe Davis will make that reservation. "See You in St. Louie" -? We'll be looking for you.

The reason your Numismatist was late is that we are using a different printer and had some difficulties with their first issue.

Coin robberies continue to make too much news! Your association offers coin insurance as one of its services, you know, but it is up to you to avail yourself of it.

Another service is the ANA reward for assisting in the apprehension of burglary suspects. If you are robbed "shout it from the house tops" immediately! It may not nothing, it can alert others, get your material back and earn the other a reward. The association tries to assist the collector in many ways.

"The dollar isn't worth much any more but bucks are. ---- They always pay for themselves in knowledge of coins." --- "Too many people try to collect coins without the information about them." That's what your ANA governor Richard Long, and Paulin (Mrs. "Marty") Martin have to say.

Do you have a list of the ANA Reprints and Numismatic Material for Sale through the ANA Library, Box 2366, Colorado Springs, 80901? It can very well include just what you need to make your collection more meaningful. You can get the list by writing for it. The latest additions to the list are "Medals of China" for 75c and "Medals of Massachusetts Bay Tercentenary 1930" for $1.00.

No one is foolish always, everyone is sometimes.

No critic ever SETTLED anything.

Greatness lies not in being strong but in the right use of strength.

sistant engraver and was appointed chief engraver on July 22, 1948. Among his designs are the obverse of the mint's presidential medals of Eisenhower, Kennedy and the first term Lyndon B. Johnson, the congressional medals awarded to Irving Berlin and Jonas Salk. His design appears on the Kennedy half dollar of 1964. Roberts resigned from the mint in 1964 to become chairman of the board of General Numismatic Corp. and the Franklin Mint. He is not only a splendid sculptor and engraver, but an astronomer, precision instrument worker and inventor. His latest design was the moon medal issued by the Franklin Mint.

Now that you know a few things of the men who have designed our coins throughout the years, maybe you can look at the coins with a different eye and see them for what they really are - a piece of our nation's history as well as great pieces of art designed by great artists.

TNA AWARD PLACQUES MAILED

With the unexpectedly large number of outstanding exhibits . . . 50 . . . at the April TNA convention in Houston, there were not enough award plaques to go around.

The manufacturer finally has delivered the extra awards, and they all have been mailed, including a "Count-of-Honor Award" to William Rust, past governor of District 13, Wichita Falls, who long has been a faithful supporter of TNA's convention exhibits, and whose "funny money" display always has attracted the attention of newcomers to numismatics.

JUNIOR READIN' ROUNDUP

By MARY JANE WHYBORN
San Antonio, Texas
Youth Chairman

Summer is drawing to a close and, once again, it's the end of vacation and the beginning of another school year. I hope your summer has been filled with fun and good times.

During our recent yearly pilgrimage to Southern California we attended the annual Coin and Stamp Exposition in Long Beach. This is purely a commercial enterprise, but we enjoy looking around -- even if we're not buying. We also attended the 10th Pomona Valley Coin Club Coin O-Rama, where my husband judged exhibits, as well as several coin club meetings.

Many of you will remember the article I wrote last year about Davyd Pepito, the sixteen-year-old deaf and blind boy whom I met at a meeting of the West Covina Coin Club. I saw Davyd again this year, however, his father tells me that Davyd's health is failing. As a result, he is losing his extremely keen sense of touch which, among other things, means that he is unable to read or communicate as rapidly. Nevertheless, Davyd was able to sell 50 books of tickets (200 tickets) for prizes given away at a recent coin show sponsored by his club. He was presented with a beautiful trophy for his outstanding efforts. Although he sees his trophy only with his hands, he enjoys it every bit as much as you or I would.

As exhibit chairman for the Alamo City Coin Show (August 22-23), I tried to pick up a few pointers while in California. My dear friend (and TNA member), Ethel Lenhert, has been exhibit chairman for several shows, as well as being a well-known and outstanding exhibitor. It is always enlightening, as well as entertaining, to watch Ethel at work. We could all take a few lessons in exhibiting from Ethel.

I am delighted that James A. Conlon, Director of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing, is providing the featured exhibit for the Alamo City Coin Show. It will consist of a framed exhibit of Military Payment Certificates, plus engraved printings of the Declaration of Independence, the Gettysburg Address, the Presidential and Vice Presidential Seals, six Presidential Portraits and six Vignettes of Government buildings. In addition, we have some fine competitive exhibits, both adult and junior. This will be the biggest show in San Antonio since the TNA Convention in 1968, so I expect to see a lot of you there.

I would like to take this opportunity to welcome the following new junior TNA members: Debra Brown, Lori Grossman, and Andrew Holds. I will be able to give them their membership cards and TNA medals personally, as they all happen to be members of the Alamo Coin Club.

See ya' next month!!

Ray Kirkpatrick, governor of District IV, Texas Numismatic Association and a charter member of Austin Coin Club presented a complete explanation of the new Texas Antiquities Act at the June meeting of Austin Coin Club.

Kirkpatrick, an attorney, said the Act, which recently became effective, covers coins and all other artifacts in the Gulf of Mexico lands owned by the State of Texas and all lands, public and private, within the State on locations of historical and archeological importance.

He reported that the Act provides for a State Antiquities Commission which will operate under the Texas State Historical Survey Commission headquartered in Austin. The Survey Commission has recently issued a pamphlet containing guidelines for treasure-hunters and others interested in collecting historical or archeological artifacts, and the pamphlets are Twenty five attended the meeting. –Mrs. G. M. Howard, Publicity.

TELL ADVERTISERS YOU SAW IT IN "TNA NEWS"

TNA '70 DIDN'T FORGET LADIES

TNA 1970 made it a point to furnish non numismatic diversions for the ladies.

Besides the ladies' hospitality room (the 18th floor Tejas Room, overlooking the Houston skyline) there was a Friday night bingo game with plenty of prizes handed out by TNA Treasurer "Mac" Kennady who doubled in brass by twirling the cage and calling the numbers.

On Saturday a special Greyhound bus took the ladies to Old Westbury Square in southwest Houston for a delightful luncheon at Madame Lam's Mandarin Restaurant, after which they spent an hour browsing and shopping in the many quaint shops in The Square.

TNA '70 Auctions Garza Mint Coin

One of the most interesting auctioned specimens was Lot No. 401, the rare "Garza Mint" coin minted in San Antonio by Don Antonio de Garza, under proclamation of Governor Prado when Tejas was part of Mexico. The coin went for $500.00 and probably will end up in one of Texas' museums.

The auction at TNA 1970 was the most advantageous to TNA of any in TNA history. Nearly a year in advance, bids were invited from 11 nationally known coin dealers. With no recommendation, the general chairman submitted the four highest bids (two of which were identical) to the TNA Board. The Board chose the bid of Colonial Coins of Houston, which bid was a guarantee of $1,500.00 or 3 per cent of the total sales, whichever would prove to be higher, and with a cash deposit of $500.00 earnest money.

THINKING OF SELLING?

Sell Your Coins to a Coin Retailer

We have spent a number of years developing a fine retail outlet for coins, namely, our over counter sales service, the great central Texas market, our Coin World ads are accepted and heavily responded to by their readers, plus our direct mailer lists has some of the most active collectors in the U.S. Therefore you can understand why we need material in all price ranges.

Here's all you do:

1. Package your coins securely and mail them to us. They will be inspected upon receipt and our check goes out to you the same day. Your coins are held intact until your acceptance of our offer received.
2. If your collection is too much to mail, contact us by letter or phone and we will work out suitable arrangements.

We invite you to contact any numismatic publication to check our professional references. We will gladly furnish you the name of our bank so you can check our financial condition.
